Subscriptions to Loan.

The Canadian Government has never floated an issue which has not been successfully absorbed. Recent business has brought us back to the pre-war position in which the average investor demands primarily safety in his commitments. From the standpoint of the national credit it is of importance that the forthcoming loan be rapidly absorbed by Canadians. Any examination of the financial situation, fortunately, indicates that the issue will quickly be oversubscribed. The safety both of principal and interest are alone sufficient to warrant this belief. The desire of the investor for safety first today is another reason who next week's issue should maintain the unbroken record of successful loan floatations by the Dominion of Canada.

The Opening Auction Sale

A good-sized crowd faced Auctioneer Zecht on Friday last, when he made his opening address on the farm of Mr Herman Hatfelter, where he was holding a clearance auction sale of that gent's stock and goods. Bidding was fairly lively, Art Fournier getting a team of geldings for $72. Art is starting in on the farming racket, and picked up a number of articles which will come in handy on his farm at Golden Spike. Mr Hatfelter is leaving for the Coast, to spend the winter.

Mr Zecht's sale on Tuesday for Mrs Straus, at Glory Hills, was also well patronized.

Another sale is billed for Tues. Nov. 6th, at the John Wedel farm, near Carvel.

Lest We Forget.

Fourteen years have come and gone since that momentous eleventh hour of the eleventh day, of the eleventh month of 1918, when the armistice which ended hostilities in the greatest war in the history of mankind became effective. Once again the people of Canada observe "Remembrance Day,"—a day on which they pay tribute to the memory of the thousands of their fellow citizens, men and women, who gave their lives in a cause which to them, and to us who survive, was a sacred, a noble cause, namely, a war to end war.

But as we look back over those fourteen years, and as we view the state of the world today, we are perplexed as we seek an answer to the question: Has war, after all, been ended? We are disturbed and suffer disquietude as we contemplate the present world situation. Were the sacrifices of 1914-1918 all in vain? Is something worse to follow?

The nations of the world have not disarmed; quite the reverse is true. Armaments are greater and more deadly today than they were in July, 1914. There have been numerous attempts to reduce armaments, but none to do away with them altogether, and the attempts at reduction have been feeble and for the most part ineffective.

Under the terms of the Peace Treaty Germany was disarmed, and her allies reduced to a position of impotence for the time being. But in disarming Germany, the Allies tacitly agreed to bring about world disarmament. They have failed to do so, and now Germany is insisting on one of two things, either that the Allies proceed to disarm or that Germany be permitted to re-arm. The German demand is a reasonable one. The Allies cannot expect to hold a great, proud and powerful people in the position which the German people are forced to occupy at the present time.

What is to be the outcome? Will the Allies at last make a real, a determined, an honest attempt to disarm? If they do not, they will either have to agree to the re-arming of Germany, or that country will proceed to re-arm without their consent, and who will, or can, stop her?

But did the World War end war? As a matter of fact, is not the war still in progress, but in another form which is bringing ruin upon all nations and imposing huge and incalculable losses and intense suffering upon millions of people? The weapons now employed are not bullets and bombs and bayonets, but extreme nationalist policies of many kinds,—restrictive trade measures, prohibitive tariffs, trade quotas, immigration quotas, with each nation striving to promote its own interests by working some harm to other nations. Where do we find two nations working in cordial co-operation to advance, not only their own welfare but the welfare of each other, and the world at large? Rather, are not the nations engaged in waging war upon each other actuated solely by the motive of the survival of the fittest?

Narrow nationalism kept alive by, and in turn keeping alive, racial and religious suspicions, passions and bitterness, rules today, with every nation excusing its own selfishness, its own narrowness and bigotry, on the ground that other nations started it, are worse than they are, and that they are merely providing needed self-protection for themselves.

So we find Russia, while teaching its farmers and workers how to build and use tractors, at the same time instructing them in the mechanism and operation of tanks for use in war. We find democracy overthrown in Italy and a war-like dictatorship set up. Fearing each other the countries of Europe adopt policies the result of which is ruin to the agriculturists of Canada, the United States, and all of the great food exporting countries of the world. The United States and France grab all the gold in the world and store it away in vaults indifferent to the fact that thereby they bring financial chaos upon the world. Each nation is out to kill the trade of all other nations, and they have succeeded to the extent that tens of millions of men and women are thrown out of work.

It is a disheartening picture, and no one nation seems to have the courage to face it, grapple with it, make a break in the vicious circle, and attempt to cut the cords which are throttling and strangling mankind. Instead, the old, threadbare excuse is given and acted upon,—the other fellow is doing it, he is to blame, and I must follow suit or be submerged."

If this attitude is maintained much longer complete world collapse is inevitable. Conditions resulting are nothing but a hotbed in which anarchy thrives and grows apace. All the enemies of law and order, all the fanatics with pet but unsound theories of their own, are preying upon the public in all countries, promising to create utopias if the people will only arise en masse and destroy everything now existing and which has been built up out of the labor, the experience, the sufferings of the generations of the past.

It is the whole system that is wrong, so these agitators declare, but nothing is quite so wrong as such statements. It is not the system that is wrong, although like all systems it must constantly change and improve in an ever-changing world to meet conditions as they, too, change. No, the fault lies in the hearts and minds of people themselves. They still maintain their old suspicions and dislikes of each other; they hate any race and language but their own; they scorn any religion but their own; each nation suffers either from fear or a superiority complex because one or the other is the predominating trait of character of the individual men and women who make up the nation. It is the individual view which finds expression in partisan national policies.

Many of the politicians and statesmen of the world, the men chosen to direct national and international policies, realize the situation and felt in themselves would be able to accomplish much to remedy it and remove the danger which is imminent, but their people will not support them; the masses would sweep them aside and put others in their place to continue to insist upon policies of extreme narrow nationalism. It is their own suffering they are thus determined to maintain, and their ultimate undoing which they will bring about, unthinkingly, heedlessly, and from purely selfish motives.

Life Is Dedicated To War Memorial

Book Of Remembrance To Be Illuminated By Montreal Man

A five-year task of illuminating the Book of Remembrance which will contain the names of the 60,000 Canadian men and women who died overseas from August 1914 until the disbandment of the Canadian Expeditionary Force in 1922 is the life-work of William Purves, who exhibited a rough sample of the proposed Book in the McGill University Library here. The completed work will be placed in a specially-built vault in the Peace Memorial Tower in the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa.

"The work I am now engaged on is my life-work," said Mr. Purves when interviewed. "If I live the next five years to finish the job I shall feel that my life has not been spent in vain."

The Book of Remembrance containing 600 leaves of the finest calf-skin vellum will be bound in purple Morocco leather, mounted on solid gold and engraved with the Canadian Coat of Arms. The 60,000 names will be inscribed by hand on the parchment the work of several men, but 15 pages will be fully illuminated by Mr. Purves.

His intends to tell pictorially, year by year, the story of the war; for instance, the theme for 1914 will be the carrying of troops by the navy, for 1915, the pouring in of men from every province to aid their country, and so on. Mr. Purves also plans to work into his illuminated pages many authentic scenes showing the pleasures and pastimes of the men overseas.—Montreal Correspondent Canadian Press.

Barley In Export Trade

Production Now Amounts To Nearly 150,000,000 Bushels a Year

The production of barley in Canada is rapidly increasing and now amounts to nearly 150,000,000 bushels a year. The principal uses for barley in the export market are: Feed for Livestock; Pot and Pearl Barley; Rolled Barley; Barley Flour and Barley Meal; Breakfast Foods; Malt Food Products; Malt Coffee and Barley Coffee; Malt Flour; Malt Extract; Fermented Alcoholic and Non-Alcoholic Beverages; Distilled Alcoholic Beverages and Solvents; Industrial Alcohol; Malted Stock Feed; and Yeast.

A special study of the particular needs of that section of the market which the producer seeks to serve, is essential to the satisfactory development of the export trade.—Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

The letter was dated last March, and was in answer to protests from the Alberta School Trustees' Association against the delay in giving effect to this 1931 legislation.

British Museum Has Most Amazing Collection Of Old Newspapers Ever Assembled

Can you imagine coming downstairs one morning, getting your newspaper from the verandah and, after your proper fruit, reading an account of the first time in history a locomotive had run on rails drawing 20 coaches at the staggering speed of 12 miles per hour?

The British Museum has just opened a new branch for the housing of its collection of newspapers, the most amazing collection in the world. In this new building is housed a copy of every newspaper—British, Dominion and foreign—published since the year 1800.

The enormous output of literature of every kind has made the new building a necessity. The British Museum endeavours to obtain a copy of every book printed, from multiplication tables and last-time stories to the be-mess styles of Ethel M. Dell and the novels of Elinor Glyn. There was no room for both books and newspapers so the latter have been given a new home.

The new building is located at Colindale, near Hendon, some 10 or 12 miles from the Museum itself. It is of concrete and steel with brick veneer and cost over £500,000. It already contains 270,000 bound volumes of newspapers weighing 20,000 tons. They occupy 14 miles of shelves. There is still room to absorb the world's output of newspapers for the next 50 years.

The reading room is 97 by 30 feet with sitting room and ample desk accommodation for 50 readers. The work of binding is done on the premises by the museum staff.

The building is open to the public. Application has first to be made and a ticket of admission obtained. Armed with this, anyone can walk in, fill up a form and in a remarkably short space of time any newspaper required is laid before him.

It is an interesting experience to read an old-hat news what we all once had to learn laboriously as history. These papers go back to the Battle of Trafalgar and beyond; the escape of Napoleon from Elba, his defeat at Waterloo, the abolition of slavery throughout British and, later, American possessions; the deaths of George the Fourth, William of the same regimental number, Victoria the Good and Edward VII.; the crossing of the Atlantic by the first steamer, the inventions of a thousand and one adventurous things which are commonplace today: the institution of penny postage, Franklin's ill-starred expedition to the Arctic, the proclamation of a republic in France, were by the same.

From a historical viewpoint probably these newspapers have little value, history being a matter of perspective, but at least they do portray current thought at the time events which have since become history were actually taking place. What a tragedy they do not go back further still. Think of the thrill of reading, say, the news of the death of Cleopatra — "Queen of Egypt suicides. Famous beauty succumbs to asp bite"—would make telling headlines.

Then the bold, inscrutable lie her grief at the death of Anthony, Cleopatra decided to end her life. Dismissing her servants and accompanied only by her favorite asp she retired to her couch. She was found later by a servant who gave the alarm. The court physician diagnosed the case of death as snake-bite.

The paper's medical correspondent would then describe for the benefit of the entertainment, the precise effect of a bite in the breast. Also there is no such newspaper in existence.

But the collection of newspapers which is gathered here must, since publication a lot of amusement. They can always be contrasted with what they said in a moment of misapprehension or in the days before they learned their political stale bunk-and.

There is no point in the question as to what Gladstone said in '94. The answer is on file. Gladstone, being dead, can never claim to have been misreported.

Collectors Seek Post Mr Hall Envelope

Persons Going Willing To Pay Million Pounds For It.

A first offer of one million dollars has been posted by a group of French stamp collectors for the first envelope ever carried by air mail, provided the envelope can be found and its authenticity proved.

The first air mail consisted of a single envelope carried aloft by a Frenchman, Jean-Pierre Blanchard, on Jan. 9, 1793, from a Philadelphia prison court yard to prove the military and commercial possibilities of balloons.

The first letter bore the signature of Washington, addressing good-will to the American citizens. After a flight of 46 minutes, the balloon landed at Woodbury, N.J., and the Washington air-mail letter was delivered to the mayor.

This flight is a matter of historical record. If found the envelope will be officially recognized as being the first air mail letter.

Quote on Montreal, August Prices Paid At $12,000,000 Basis

Taken as a whole, the principal field crops of Canada have seldom attained such total volume as during the present season or been of a higher quality. Yields were generally satisfactory in spite of the prevalence, despite continued summer dry in Southern sections or other causes, a preliminary estimate of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics placed the total yield of wheat in the prairie provinces at 448,000,000 bushels but from latest reports a total of around 474,000,000 bushels is now anticipated. Even so, the yield is well in excess of the ten-year average and the largest crop since 1928.

Last year's prairie crop was approximately 304,000,000 bushels. The wheat marketed to date has graded exceptionally high and with indications that the high prairie output will be maintained. The oat crop is estimated at 374,000,000 bushels against 162,700,000 bushels last year and the barley crop at 70,000,000 bushels as compared with 32,000,000 bushels.

The Coming Season

Thrifty Housewife Will Store Away Fruits and Vegetables For Winter Use

A timely suggestion comes from the Dominion Fruit Branch at Ottawa in the form of a message which has a vital appeal to housewives all over Canada, whether in the farm home or in the city. We all know the difficult straits in which many of our fellow citizens find themselves as a result of conditions entirely beyond their control. With a wealth of fruits and vegetables available at low prices these few weeks past, and with other necessary things such as sugar and condiments equally available, there should be no need to chronicle about a ready response to the appeal "Just one a little more, if you can, when you can."

Little Things To Fight

Simple Measures Can Be Taken To Control Internal Parasites In Animals

Dr. Lionel Stevenson, Provincial Zoologist for Ontario, in a recent review of work being done in connection with the control of internal parasites of animals stated that those which give principal cause of concern to the livestock industry are comparatively few. Of these he named six principal internal parasites in sheep, two in swine, two in cattle, three in horses, two in poultry, and five in fur-bearing animals. In the case of most of these parasites it is possible to check their ravages by simple control measures.—Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Collection of Arctic Timber-Wolf Skins Sold In Winnipeg

A collection of 200 arctic timber wolves was sold by auction in Winnipeg recently, the outstanding feature of the Hudsons Fur Auction Company's October sale of raw furs. The skins were the property of the Dominion Government and as each one of them a bounty of $20 had been paid to the trapper regardless of the size or quality. A substantial portion of the pelts had been taken from small pups and the average price realized was correspondingly lowered considerably.

Prices ranged all the way from $5 which the small damaged skins up to $50.50 for large skins of good quality. The collection averaged $11.

A collection of late-caught beaver ranged between $11 and $1.70 and averaged $8.55 unchanged to five per cent. higher than the prices realized in August. Cross fox sold unchanged to five per cent. higher, ranging from $1.20 for badly rubbed skins up to forty dollars for good specimens.

The white collection was very spotty and prices realized were not representative. The range was $5 cents up to $5.50. Red foxes were in poor demand and mostly bought back. Blackcats were all bought back.

White foxes brought around $25 for cross and toss with average Blackcats three and Chesterfield John lots bringing from $36 to $16.75, unchanged from the August level.

Marten advanced 10 per cent., ranging up to $21.50 and averaging $10.50. Otter was in poor demand and sold unchanged, the range being from $5 to $36.

A collection of 2,300 weasel attracted fair demand, advancing about five per cent. Prices ranged from 20 cents up to 21¼ cents and averaged 20 cents for the skins sold.

Ordinary mink declined about 10 per cent., ranging from $8.75 down to $5.75 and averaging $7.50.—Manitoba Free Press.

Should Wages Rise Cop

"I believe in love at first sight—I have experienced it myself ten times today."—Lustige Blatt, Leipzig

Many motor citizens in Manitoba, only are convinced that there are right big points of difference between drivers who do and have accidents and those whose records are unmarked with mishaps.

They believe if all drivers could be made to realize that these eight accident factors are the primary ones, and that if they both know what they were and how to avoid them, the traffic safety situation would be benefited enormously.

That is why they devote their months every year at the height of the travel season to the especially strict enforcement of these eight "three deadly sins" with the aim of educating drivers as to their importance. The campaign is more, then, than a sporadic period of rigorous enforcement.

It might be interesting for the average motorist to sit down with a pencil before reading the list of mishap factors and see how many of the eight he can name and to what order he places them. They have not been selected by chance but on the basis of a thorough study of traffic mishaps over a long period of years. The list follows:

Driving too fast for conditions.

Passing another vehicle going in the same direction when the view ahead is obstructed.

Failure to keep to the right of the road.

Failure to slow down for intersections.

Failure to slow down when approaching pedestrians.

Failure to observe the law regarding stopping for street cars taking on or discharging passengers.

Disregard of traffic control devices, signs, signals and stop lights.

Dangerous and improper parking on on curves and corners.

The eight points might well be taken by any motorist anywhere as the guide to an accidentless driving experience. If he were to undertake the task of self-education, it is doubtful that he could find a better point of beginning than that of learning just what careless, heedless, or reckless considerations he needs to study to get him into trouble.

He could make enormous headway in improving his safety score if he realize the full meaning of only the first factor; that of driving too fast for conditions. There never has been an accident, intentional or otherwise which did not rank this as the most serious breach against the canons of safe operation. Even the most skilled and safest motor vehicle offender, those who have stood for the abolition of all maximum speed limit laws, voice no demurrer to this indictment of speed.

Therefore, if the car operator wants to be safe as far as the Manitoba eight points are concerned, his procedure is to decide to use his discretion at all times in selecting his speed and to obey the law with respect to the other seven qualifications of a careful operator.

Pie Crust Easily Made

Be Sure Required Fat Success With New Method

The making of a good pie crust used to be one of the criteria by which a housewife's skill was judged. Most experienced cooks will remember the anxiety with which they learned to blend flour and shortening, and their difficulty in adding just the right amount of ice water. Since different flours have varying capacities for absorbing moisture it took experience to know by the "feel" of the pie dough when it was ready for rolling.

The filling was not as hard to make, from a technical point of view, but it took time and there were plenty of utensils to wash afterward! Now there is a new method of making pie with crumb crusts and uncooked fillings which is being hailed with delight.

Sweetened Condensed Milk is the "magic" ingredient which makes these new pies possible. These easy combinations of pie crusts and fillings are divided into two groups; meringue pies and cream pies. The fillings in each case are made by blending sweetened condensed milk and lemon juice. This makes a thick, rich base to which various kinds of fresh fruits may be added.

In making the crust for meringue pies blend one cup crumbs (graham cracker, toasted graham bread, chocolate wafers or lemon snaps) with ¼ cup sweetened condensed milk and a few grains of salt. Line a well-buttered pie tin with this crumbly mixture and pat into shape. Pie made with this crust should be spread with meringue and require only as much time in the oven as is needed to brown the fluffy topping.

If whipped cream is to be used in place of meringue roll ¾ cup of crumbs and cover bottom of buttered pie plate. Cut halves of wafers or crackers and set them around the edge of the pie plate. This type of crust needs no baking at all.

Both types of pies require thorough chilling for several hours. Raspberries, blueberries or strawberries may be used in place of blackberries in the Blackberry Meringue Pie which is given below.

BLACKBERRY MERINGUE PIE

1½ cups (1 can) Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk.
½ cup lemon juice.
2 eggs.
1 cup blackberries.
2 tablespoons granulated sugar.
Toasted Graham Bread Pie Crust.

Blend together Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk, lemon juice and egg yolks. Fold in blackberries which have been slightly crushed. Pour into nine-inch pie plate lined with Toasted Graham Cracker Pie Crust. Cover with meringue made by beating egg whites until stiff and adding sugar. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) until brown. Chill before serving.

An Optical Illusion

Experiment Must Drivers Have When Approaching Intersection

A car coming from the right at a street intersection will always seem to be going faster than it actually is.

This is an optical illusion produced by the action of yours and the other fellow's car arriving at the point of a "traffic wedge" at the same time. As the cars near the point of this wedge they seem to increase in speed, when as a matter of fact they may be slowing down.

When meeting a car under such circumstances it is best to be guided by the illusion and slow down accordingly, but if caught in a situation where you are too late to avoid a collision by stopping it is well to know that the other car is not travelling as fast as it seems and that you can reach the crossing safely by speeding up a little.

Deserves The Honor

Earl Byng Served Award of Field Marshal's Baton

General Byng had a remarkably good record as a commander in the great war and richly deserves the field marshal's baton that has been awarded to him. The Canadian expeditionary force served under General Byng, who, after the war, became governor-general of this Dominion.

When a British soldier is given "the baton," he receives the highest rank in the army. That of field marshal. The baton is a short staff presented by the King as a symbol of office. No one is made a field marshal unless he is of royal blood or has rendered distinguished service.

FAT MAN LOSES 63 lbs.

Kruschen and Walking

Overweight men who want to lose a few pounds can have the benefit of this man's experience. He gives them to us for publication:—

"In a little over twelve months I have reduced my weight from 227 lbs. to 164 lbs. by taking a dose of Kruschen Salts every morning for six months, and taking walking exercise every day. This remarkable achievement is all the more interesting when one considers that I did not resort to any form of dieting."—G. L. R.

You can take off fat with Kruschen Salts if you will take one-half teaspoon in hot water every morning before breakfast, modify your diet, and exercise regularly.

While you are losing fat you will be gaining in energy—in endurance—in ambition. The old arm chair won't hold you any more—you'll want to be up and doing—you'll enjoy work and active recreation and you'll sleep like a top. You'll lose fat, and probably live years longer.

Continue In Much Greater This Year Than Previous Season

For the first 11 weeks of the current crop year, exports of Canadian wheat totalled 53,650,000 bushels compared with 20,413,200 bushels for the same period of last year, according to a report issued by the Dominion bureau of statistics. For the week ended October 14, the total was 6,-948,736. This was a decline from the previous week of nearly 1,000,000 bushels.

Arctic Is Place For Real

Food Provided Up There and Work Not Too Hard

For a real rest, go to the Arctic, according to members of the crew of the Hudson's Bay Company trading boat "Karluk," which in striking contrast to the ill-fated "Bayeholme," had a quiet, sedate trip to the furthermost Arctic outposts.

The "Karluk" returned to Vancouver after three months in the north.

"Depression hasn't hit the Arctic yet," said R. M. Honeycombe, western Arctic manager of the company, who was among the passengers. "Food is plentiful up there and work is not too hard."

Skelton Rescued After Canadian Captain

One Of Champlain's Thermometers Will Be Called Hercules

One of the streets of the new townsite to be opened at Churchill next spring has been named after a living Canadian, Captain J. R. Bernier of Levis, Que. He is the only Canadian now alive to be given this recognition in the building of Canada's new northern port on Hudson Bay. All the other streets have been named after explorers and navigators of the north lands long since departed.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

NOVEMBER 6

THE CHRISTIAN AND WORLD PEACE

Golden Text: "Blessed are the peacemakers; for they shall be called sons of God."—Matthew 5:9.

Lesson: Psalms 98:97, 98; 67:1-7; 72:8-19; Isaiah 2:1-4; Matthew 28:16-20; Ephesians 2:13-19.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 46:4-11.

Explanations and Comments

A Vision Of the Righteous King, Psalm 72:1-7.—The Psalmist prays that the king may be so just and right that his subjects will be guaranteed justice and peace. "Some actual ruler—Solomon, Hezekiah, or another—is no doubt in view, but, as in Psalm 45, the royal figure is so idealized that the Psalm becomes truly Messianic, and applicable only to the perfect Divine King."—Dummelow.

A Vision Of the Righteous Kingdom, Psalm 72:8-17.—The kingdom over which this righteous king will rule will expand until its frontiers reach the confines of the sea. Desert tribes will bow before Him, and His enemies will fall in humble obeisance into the dust at His feet. Tribute will He receive from Tarshish—lands beyond the western sea—and from the nearer isles; gifts will be brought to Him from the kings of Sheba (in southern Arabia), and Seba (west of the Red Sea). He will pity the needy and the poor, and no drop of their blood will He allow to be shed unjustly. Prayers will continually be offered for him and blessings showered upon him.

"The sense of God was prevalent with the Hebrews in the days when these Psalms were written. They lived in the consciousness that the God of their fathers tabernacled amongst them. The same consciousness was characteristic of the great poet, before materialism and wealth had set-on into modern life. All the advantages of modern civilization would hardly be too much to give, if it were possible to get men to pray continually and to bless God all the day long."—F. B. Meyer.

Christ Is Our Peace, Ephesians 2:13-19.—Gentiles and Jews are now one in Christ, Paul proclaims. "Paul is thinking of the fact that the relations between Jew and Gentile, and between both Jew and Gentile and God, have been put upon a new basis by Jesus Christ. A new 'covenant' has been made, and one of its terms is that the Gentile is to be admitted to the fellowship of God on precisely the same terms as the Jew. The death of the Messiah who effected this change was seen to play a real part in the change. It 'sealed' the covenant."—G. A. Johnston Ross.

Valveless Motor Device For Boats

Vast Alterations In Engine Production Seen By Inventor

Invention of a valveless four-cylinder motor for boats is claimed at Indianapolis, by John Irvine, who says he worked eighteen years on the project. Irvine believes the invention may result in vast alterations in engine production.

Valveless motors of two cylinders are in use, according to Irvine, but four-cylinder engines failed because of stitching of cylinders. Irvine said he had overcome this difficulty and found his invention to be a success in several tests.

The motor is water-cooled and is capable of driving a small craft 40 miles an hour, according to its inventor.

Irvine said he believed that with a few additional improvements his motor could be adapted to aeroplanes and automobiles.

An Old Pro Job Man—The sailor, the soldier, the fisherman, the lumberman, the out-door laborer and all who are exposed to injury and the elements will find in Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil a true and faithful friend. An Important Business

The building of boats, trees, and shoe findings in Canada has grown into quite an important business. The factory value of the output in 1931 was $2,500,000. The business also turns out some interesting statistics, not included in the above. There are ship boats, the pins, duck pins, golf club heads, tongue depressors, garden rakes, spruce and sticks, etc. The factory value of these last year was $71,000. There are seven factories in Quebec, two in Nova Scotia and two in Ontario.

Cambridge, England, is to have a new $2,500,000 library building.

Mixed Marriages Not Favored By Italians

And Nearly All Weddings Are In Place Of Worship

A curious "stay home" custom still prevails among Italians with regard to marriage. There are hardly any mixed marriages. Of those who found spouses last year, 99.35 per cent. of the Catholic men married Catholic wives. Of the very small fraction who went further afield half married women of other Christian cults, and the other married wives of the Jewish faith.

Of the women, rather fewer Catholics married Protestants or Jews and only a dozen espoused men who registered as "without any religion." On the other hand 99.58 per cent. of the Jewish men who married and 97.66 per cent. of the Jewish brides chose either Catholics or Protestants.

Although a purely civil marriage is now legal, about 94.86 per cent. were married in a place of public worship.

FAIRNESS TO ALL IN PENITENTIARY INVESTIGATION

Ottawa, Ont.—Loud cullcits greeted a demonstration on parliament hill in connection with the visit of 15 ministers and friends of the Communists confined in Portsmouth penitentiary, according to notices posted here.

A sweeping investigation was under way at Portsmouth penitentiary with fulsome being meted out to all, and so far there had been no development following the necessity of a public inquiry, Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, said to 15 members of the Canadian Defence League who waited upon him. The party was refused admission.

"If a situation develops," the Minister told the delegation, "that calls for a general or open inquiry, I will be prepared to consider it. At the present time I see no reason for such an inquiry."

With a suggestion of Edward Smith, Toronto, that the riots at the institution "were stirred, the same as the strikes of any industrial workers," the Minister of Justice disagreed, holding them more in the light of revolts.

The eight incarcerated Toronto Communists were styled "political prisoners" by the delegation, who were entitled to special treatment. "We have no political prisoners in Canada," the Minister of Justice declared. "Anyone can hold any political views he may like so long as he stays within the law. We have no political prisoners."

No discrimination whatever would take place at the institution in regard to the eight Communists, Mr. Guthrie stated. "No favors or no discriminations will be shown to any prisoner during the inquiry."

"These statements are being taken down by a competent stenographer, and will be forwarded to me from day to day," the Minister declared. No copies had reached him yet.

When conditions became normal, the Minister said he personally would see that the visits of relatives to the prisoners would be resumed.

Oil Company Withdraws

Montreal Firm Decides To Drop Rawdon Barite Scheme

Montreal, Que.—One party to the three-cornered aluminum products deal has decided to withdraw from the transaction. Joseph Ilio, a director of Lamalo Petroleums Refinery Company, has announced his company will not accept further shipments of oil.

"There seems to have been some dissatisfaction about the whole deal," Ilio said. He did not, he said, wish to "be bothered" with any more of the business.

Ottawa, Ont.—Complaints in connection with the quality of the Soviet oil imported recently into Canada are being investigated, the Prime Minister told Hon. Ian Mackenzie (Lib., Vancouver Centre), in the House of Commons.

Canada Assured Of Large Lumber Market

But Full Advantage Cannot Be Taken For Some Time

Ottawa, Ont.—Assured of a large potential market for lumber in the United Kingdom under the new trade treaty with that country, Canada will not be able to take full advantage of it for from three to five years.

This statement was given the House of Commons by one of the leading operators of northern Ontario and the chairman of the committee which represented the Canadian lumber industry at the imperial economic conference, George B. Nicholson (Con., Algoma East).

It was one of two conflicting views on the effect of the treaty on the lumber industry given the House in the course of the debate on ratification of the treaty.

A. W. Neill, (Ind., Comox-Alberni) said the lumber preference would be of no value to Canada because Scandinavian countries, operating on depreciated currencies, could still undersell Canada.

Mr. Nicholson said the potential market for Canadian lumber obtained would amount to more than 1,000,000,000 board feet. The British market of the moment, was saturated with lumber from Russia and central Europe and Canadian lumber had not sufficient stock on hand to satisfy the British market.

Russian Plan Is Ahead Of Last Year

Soviet Government Planned For 1932 Now Well Reached

Moscow, Russia.—With the end of the first five-year plan only a little more than two months off, official figures published showed that Russia's industry as a whole accomplished less than half the increase planned for 1932, but still is running considerably ahead of last year.

The country's entire industrial production for the first eight months of this year, including heavy and light industries, timber and food industries, reached a combined average of 14.9 per cent. above the same period of 1931, as compared with a scheduled increase of 36 per cent. for the whole year of 1932.

Provinces Will Be Aided

Federal Government Promises Help If Needed For Relief

Ottawa, Ont.—The government is not in a position to make any exact pronouncement or policy respecting unemployment relief, but if any responsible provincial government officials report their inability to care for the needy within their jurisdiction the government will take "adequate action," Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Labor, told the House of Commons.

Montreal Bandits Make Haul

Montreal, Que.—A swiftly executed hold-up occurred for three unmasked men the sum of $12,000 in cash, and bonds valued at $1,000, when they swooped down on a branch of La Banque Canadienne Nationale, on Cherrier Street, locked the manager and five employees in the vault, scooped up the money and escaped.

To Discuss Textile

Ottawa, Ont.—Liberal members and senators met in caucus to set up committees to study individual tariff schedules affected by the Canada-United Kingdom Trade Treaty. The tariff schedules will be reviewed individually by by the House of Commons after the treaty as a whole has been ratified.

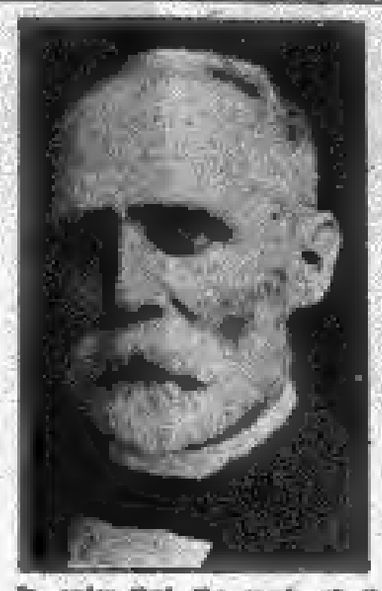
Thought It Was a Gas Station

Galt, Ont.—A joke is a joke, but when motorists add injury—that's different. William Mufkell, Detroit, for instance, sped through the village at Hire at 65 miles per hour. When he appeared in court he declared he thought the village was a gas station. He was fined $5 and costs.

Expresses His Opinion

London, England.—The annual report of Lloyds register on shipping revealed that the economic depression has laid up 13,000,000 tons or the equivalent of 20 per cent. of the world's total shipping.

ARCHBISHOP WORRELL



In order that the work of the Anglican Church in the Prince Rupert Ecclesiastical Province may survive the calamity brought about by misappropriation of funds by ex-Chancellor Mowbray, Archbishop Worrell, Primate of the Church, has intimated the opening of a fund to which the general body of bishops and clergy and members of the Missionary Society will be asked to contribute.

Noted Economist Resigns

Sir Walter Layton Leaves Committee Of World Conference

London, England.—Sir Walter Layton, noted economist, announced his resignation from the preparatory committee of the world economic conference because of a "serious difference of opinion" between himself and the British Government.

He said he had differed with Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, on "what further action is required in order to restore reasonable freedom to the movement of international trade."

Sir Walter does not think the government view that the desired result can be obtained through individual negotiations with foreign countries within limits set by the Ottawa agreements and subject to strict insistence on most favored nation rights will be successful.

Scottish Parliament

No Support To Be Gained By Asking For Home Rule

London, England.—Scottish Conservative members of the House of Commons decided not to support any move for home rule in the northern half of the United Kingdom.

At a meeting held under the chairmanship of Sir Robert Horne, a former Chancellor of the Exchequer, they reached the conclusion no benefit would be obtained by setting up a Scottish parliament.

Short And Hard Haul

U.S. Route Offers Decided Advantages For Shipping Cattle To Britain

Saskatoon, Sask.—The short and hard haul from the prairies to Churchill under the Hudson Bay route most advantageous for the shipping of cattle to the British market, was the opinion expressed by Professor A. M. Shaw, dean of agriculture, at the quarterly meeting of the Saskatoon Board of Trade. "The navigation season opens too late to permit of large movement of grain but cattle," he said, "but affords ready and profitable outlet for grass fed ponies found."

Dean Shaw was of the opinion that steam-bred cattle, developed through experiments carried out by the University of Saskatchewan, made it possible for Canadian packers to compete with Argentine in the chilled meat market in Great Britain.

British Preference

Ruling Made Regarding Canadian Shipments To Britain Via U.S.

Ottawa, Ont.—Canadian goods being shipped to the United Kingdom will receive the British preference if consigned directly from Canada to Great Britain, whether they pass through the United States or not.

Canadian goods consigned to the United States and then reconsigned to the United Kingdom will not receive the preference. Premier R. B. Bennett made this explanation of the British tariff regulations in the House of Commons.

British customs commissioners have to have proof that the transit has been uninterrupted before the preference is granted.

Less Trade Advantage

Irish Free State Will Not Receive Benefit Of Preference After November 16

London, England.—The Irish Free State will lose the advantage of imperial tariff preferences in the United Kingdom on November 16, J. H. Thomas, Dominions Secretary, told House of Commons.

On that date, he explained, preferences granted goods from the Dominions under last year's tariff act will expire, and as the Free State failed to conclude any trade agreement with the United Kingdom at the Ottawa economic conference its exports to Great Britain will be accorded tariff treatment similar to that affecting goods from foreign countries.

Big Wheat Elevator

Victoria, B.C.—As the sale grain is pouring into the Ogden Point elevator of the Alberta Wheat Pool, the 1,000,000-bushel capacity will soon be filled. There is a total of approximately 300,000 bushels of grain in the elevator at the present time.

GEORGE ARLISS CONVERSE OF LONDON

It is understood from the British Home Office that communistic organizations are responsible for the attempt of an army of unemployed men to disrupt the Parliamentary session which is at present in progress. Above is a good photo of the Mother Parliament, while next to Premier MacDonald, who is endeavoring to overcome what might be a serious disturbance.

WORK TO BE PROVIDED FOR THE UNEMPLOYED

Ottawa, Ont.—Public undertakings such as sewers and waterworks, to an amount running between $11,000,000 and $13,000,000 will be completed in various municipalities throughout Canada up to the end of December, as a measure of unemployment relief.

Road construction will be carried out in Nova Scotia, Ontario, Manitoba and Alberta. Relief camps will be operated in the prairie provinces. Additional facilities will be placed on farms in eight of the nine provinces.

In the west the plan of housing men on farms, with the farmer receiving $6 per month and the laborer a similar sum, of which the Dominion Government will pay $3 per week, will be continued. Work will be undertaken in the national parks and by the department of national defence in the establishing of emergency landing fields.

The amount of money granted by order-in-council to the Minister of the Interior for the work which is to be carried out this winter in the national parks of Canada is $300,000, according to the terms of the order-in-council tabled in the House of Commons. The money takes care of homeless single men."

"I am confident we are in this country need worry about being provided with food, clothing and shelter this winter," Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Labor, informed Hon. Ian Mackenzie, (Lib. Vancouver Centre), in the House of Commons.

Federal Aid Requested

Regina Wants Government Should Share Expenses For Airport

Regina, Sask.—Dominion assistance in bearing part of the carrying charges on the Regina municipal airport will be sought by City Commissioner R. J. Westgate, who has gone east.

Mr. Westgate will be absent from the city for about 10 days. During that time he will attend a meeting of the Anglican Church in Toronto and will visit Ottawa on civic business.

It has been the claim of the city that the airport was developed to its present state because of the air mail service. Since this service has been discontinued, the port is no longer revenue producing and the contention is that as the fund changes the Dominion Government should assume part.

Indian Terrorists

Women-Infected Needles Said To Be Used On European Girls

London, England.—The Exchange Telegraph Agency's Calcutta correspondent reported that political terrorists in India are using disease-infected needles in attacking European and Anglo-Indian office girls on route between their offices and homes.

Thirteen cases of such attacks already have been reported, the correspondent said.

Tea Consumption In Canada

Montreal, Que.—Canadians drink four pounds of tea per capita annually, two-fifths as much as Englishmen and half as much as Australians and New Zealanders and about five times as much as people in the United States, according to T. Reid, of the Ceylon Association, who is returning to England after making a survey of the Canadian market for tea.

Lindbergh's Son Named

New York.—The World-Telegram says that the second son of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh has been named Jon Morrow Lindbergh. The Job was chosen for a Scandinavian forbear of Col. Lindbergh's. Morrow is Mrs. Lindbergh's maiden name.

Cyclone Hits New Zealand

Auckland, N.Z.—A cyclone left a trail of destruction along miles long and about 300 miles wide in the Waikaremoana district. Buildings were razed, fields torn up, trees uprooted and gardens laid waste. There were no deaths or serious injuries.

Unlighted Vehicles.

If it were needed, additional evidence of the necessity of carrying lights on horse drawn vehicles at night is furnished by the experience of a motorist on the road between Blackfoot and Lloydminster. Three motor cars ran into a farmer's outfit within a space of possibly 15 minutes. The "outfit" consisted of 4 horses hitched abreast, drawing a wagon to which was attached a disc. One auto hit a horse, another ran into the disc, and the third, traveling at a higher rate of speed, crashed into the disc and was badly damaged. The Government has taken a long time to act, requiring a light to be carried on all vehicles using the highways at night.

"Flowers of Remembrance."

Every year since the inception of Flanders' poppy replicas as "Flowers of Remembrance" three significant results have been achieved:

The people of Canada have been given a tangible means of expressing their remembrance of the sacrifice of those who suffered death or disability on active service during the Great War;

Disabled Veterans unable to find employment opportunities elsewhere have been given employment in the manufacture of Poppy replicas;

Funds have been raised for the alleviation of distress and suffering among the ex service men and their families.

The 1932 distribution will have an added significance inasmuch as the need for employment for handicapped veterans and for relief funds this year is infinitely greater.

A Deer's Instinct of Self-Preservation.

When you retire at night do you perch up on the foot of your bed for a few minutes and then jump over between the sheets? Metaphorically speaking, this is exactly what a deer does when it lies down to sleep, or rear, in its wild haunts?

Fear of wild animals has so alertly attuned a deer's instinct of self-preservation that it has become a sixth sense. For this reason it never walks direct to the spot chosen for a bed. The place is selected an hour before it is occupied, and is usually in a small bluff where escape, if necessary, can be easily made. After selecting it the deer deliberately feeds thru the bluff and beyond for a hundred yards; and when thru feeding the deer turns around and follows the trail back with unerring skill. Walking into the bluff in the trail previously made, the deer stands quietly for two minutes and scans the countryside; satisfied that no enemies are watching, the deer makes a leap at right angles which carries it about 15 feet away from the trail. There it lies down without any further ado.

Both girls had their "premiere dejeuners" served to them in their rooms, so that each one's morning mail was an unknown quantity to the other until they met downstairs.

"From Lady Anne?" Joan looked interested. "What does she say?"

"She says—she writes——" Here Claire floundered and came to a stop as though uncertain how to proceed, the little puzzled frown deepening between her brows. "Oh, Joan, she had a special reason for writing—some news——"

Joan's arm, hanging slackly at her side, jerked suddenly. Something in Claire's half-frightened, deprecating air sent a thrill of foreboding through her. Her heart turned to ice within her.

"News?" she said in a harsh, strangled voice. "Tell me quick—what is it? . . . . Blaise? He's not — dead?"

Her face, drained of every drop of colour, her suddenly pinched nostrils and eyes stricken with quick fear drew a swift cry from Claire.

"No—no!" she exclaimed in hasty reassurance. "It's good news! Good—not bad!"

Joan's taut muscles relaxed and she leaned against the wall as though seeking support.

"You frightened me," she said dully. "Good news? Then it can't be for me. What is it, Claire? Is Nick" —forcing a smile—"coming out here to see you?"

Claire nodded.

"Yes, Nick—and Blaise with him."

Joan stared at her.

"Blaise—coming here? Oh, but he must not—he mustn't come!"—in sudden panic. "I couldn't go through it all again! I couldn't!"

Claire slipped an arm round her.

"You won't have to," she answered. "Because, Joan—Joan! Blaise has the right to come now. He's free!"

"Free? Free?" repeated Joan. "What do you mean? How can he be free?"

"Nesta is dead," said Claire sharply.

"Dead?" Joan began to laugh a little hysterically. "Oh, yes, she's been 'dead' before. But——"

"She is really dead this time," said Claire. "That is why Lady Anne has written—to tell us."

"I can't believe it!" muttered Joan. "I can't believe it."

"You must believe it," insisted Claire quietly. "It is all quite true. She was buried last week in the Hôtel churchyard at Cannes. Blaise, and Lady Anne writes that Nick and Blaise will be here almost as soon as her letter. They're on their way now—now, Joan! Do you understand?"

Her eyes filling with tears, Claire watched the gradual realisation of the amazing truth dawn in Joan's face. That face so tragically worn, so dead and spiritualised by suffering, glowed with a new light; a glory of unrecognisable hope lit itself in the tired golden eyes, and on the half-parted lips there seemed to quiver those tender words which still waited to be claimed.

Joan pressed her hand across her eyes like one who has seen some bright light of surpassing radiance.

"Tell me, Claire," she said at last, tremblingly. "Tell me . . ." She broke off, unable to manage her voice.

"I'll read you what Lady Anne says," replied Claire quickly. "After writing that Nesta is dead and Nick and Blaise are coming here, she goes on: 'Poor Nesta! One cannot help feeling sorry for her—killed so suddenly and so tragically. And yet such a double means quite in the picture with her lawless, wayward nature! She was shot, Claire, shot in the Boundary Woods by a Frenchman who had apparently followed her to England for the express purpose. It appears he met her at Chateau Varigny, in the days when she was posing as Madame de Varigny's niece, and fell violently in love with her. Of course Nesta could not marry him, and equally of course the Frenchman—he was the Vicomte de Chassaigne—did not know that she had a husband already. He, naturally, he hoped eventually to win her, and Nesta (who, as you know, would flirt with the butcher's boy if there were no one else handy) encouraged him and allowed him to make love to her to his heart's content. Then, after her return to Staple, he learned of her marriage, and, furious at having been so utterly deceived, he followed. He must have watched very carefully for some days, as he apparently knew her favourite walks, and waylaid her one afternoon in the woods. What passed between them we shall never know, for Chassaigne killed her and then immediately turned his revolver on himself. Blaise and Nick heard the shots and rushed down to the Boundary Woods where the shots had sounded—you'll know where I mean, the woods that lie along the border between Wilton Parry and Staple. There they found them. Nesta was dead, and de Chassaigne dying. He had just strength enough to confess to Blaise all that I have written. I am writing to you, because I think it might cause as too great a shock to Joan as you say she is still so far from strong. You must tell her——'"

Joan interrupted the reading with a shout of laughter.

"Oh, Claire! Claire! You blessed infant! I suppose all those preliminary remarks of yours about 'a letter from Lady Anne' and the 'news' it contained were by way of preparing me for the shock—breaking the news to me!"

"Yes," admitted Claire, flushing a little.

Joan rocked with laughter—gay, spontaneous laughter such as Claire had not heard issue from her lips since the day when Madame de Varigny had come to Staple.

"And you just about succeeded in frightening me to death!" continued Joan. "Oh, Claire, Claire, you adorable little goose, didn't you know that good news never kills?"

"I didn't feel at all sure," returned Claire, laughing a little, too, in spite of herself. "You've looked lately as though it wouldn't take very much of anything—good or bad—to kill you."

"Well, it would now," Joan assured her solemnly. "Not all the powers of darkness would prevail against me. I really believe." She paused, frowning a little. "How beastly it is, though, to feel outrageously happy because someone is dead! It's indecent. Poor little Nesta! Oh, Claire! Is it hateful of me to feel like this? Do say it isn't, because—because I can't help it!"

"Of course it isn't," protested Claire. "It's only natural."

"I suppose it is. And I really am sorry for Nesta—though I'm so happy myself that it sort of envelops it. Oh, Claire darling"—the shadow passing and sheer gladness of soul bubbling up again into her voice—"I'm bound to like someone—at once. It'll have to be you! And look! Those two may be here any moment—Lady Anne said so. I'm going to make myself beautiful—if I can. I wish I hadn't grown so thin! The most revolting frock in the world would look a failure draped on a clothes-horse. Still, I'll do what I can to conceal from Blaise the ravages of time. And I'm not going to wear black—I won't welcome him back in sackcloth and ashes! I won't I won't! I've got the darlingest frock upstairs—a filmy grey thing like moonlight. I'm going to wear that. I know—I know—softly—"that Glyn would understand."

And if he knew anything at all about it—and one would like to think he did—it is quite certain Fabronne would have approved his daughter's decision. For to his heavenly reasonable spirit, the idea of a woman going to meet her lover of whom a malign fate had so nearly robbed her altogether, clad in the white habiliments with which she had paid filial tribute to her father's death, would have appeared of all things the most incongruous and unreasonable.

So that when at last a prehistoric vehicle, chartered from the inn of the Green Dragon in the village below, lolled slowly up the hill to Bairnsdale and Blaise and Nick climbed down from its musty interior, a slender moss-grey figure, which might have been observed standing within the shadow of a tall stone pillar and following with straining eyes the small-like progress of the old-fashioned carriage up the steep white road, flitted swiftly back into the shelter of the trees. Claire, sleeping and smiling at the great gateway of the castle, alone received the travellers.

"Go along that corridor," she said to Blaise, when they had exchanged greetings. "It's the end door of all. That's the one-person. You'll find Joan there. She thought it appropriate"—smiling at him.

Then, as Blaise strode down the corridor indicated, she turned to Nick and asked him with an adorable dequisitory way he, too, had come to Bairnsdale?

"I've found it in the House of Dreams-Come-True," replied Nick promptly. "It seemed a likely place in which to find you, most beautiful."

Claire beamed at him.

"Oh, am I that—really, Nick?"

"Of course you are. The most beautiful in all the world. Claire"—tucking his arm into hers—"tell me, how is the 'soul-rebuilding' process getting on? That's why I came, really, you know, to find out if you had completely finished reconstructing your interior?—I can vouch for the outer woman myself"—with an adoring glance at the fluffy ash-blonde hair and pure little Greek profile.

Claire rubbed her cheek against his sleeve. To a woman who has been for four months limited almost exclusively to the society of one other woman—the rough 'foil' of a man's confidence (more particularly if he should happen to be the man) and the faint fragrance of tobacco which pervades it form an almost delicious combination.

Claire looked down her flag proudly.

"I'm ready to go back to England any time now, Nick," she murmured.

"Are you? Darling! How soon can you be ready? In a week? To-morrow? Next day?"

"Quite soon. And meanwhile, suppose you—you and Blaise—stay for a bit at the Green Dragon?"

"By night," replied Nick, admirably, quite willing to mention that something of the sort had been precisely their intention when leaving England.

Monsieur's Blaise had made his way to the door at the end of the corridor. Outside it he paused, overwhelmed by the sudden realisation that beyond that wooden barrier lay holy ground—Paradise! And the Angel with the Flaming Sword stood at the gate no longer. . . . .

She was waiting for him, over by the window, straight and slim and tall in her mess-grey, her hands hanging in front of her light-shaped like those of a child. But her eyes were woman's eyes.

Idris's Oldest Woman

Never Could Be Persuaded to Disclose Her Age

Mrs. Archibald Bridgeman, who has just died at The Laurels, Chewse Windsor, at the age of 102, was believed to be the oldest woman in Idris—but she never admitted it.

She refused to put her age on any document—even the census paper—and she would not fill up income tax forms.

She had lived at The Laurels for more than 50 years, but she always refused to have gas or electricity in the house, which was lit by candles.

All Her Children Were Troubled With Diarrhoea

Mr. J. J. Bishop, R.R. 1, Bishop, B.C., writes—"Last Summer all my children were troubled with diarrhoea, and were so bad I did not know what to do. A friend told me to give them Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, so I got a bottle, and after a couple of doses you could have seen the change. The children were soon well again, and I am very thankful to your wonderful remedy. I find it the only one that relieves so easily and quickly."

And so the big game hunting season opened Tuesday last and will continue in full swing until the 15th of next month. The fashion in hunting clothes has changed this season, by order of the Game Commissioner, from white, the former color, to scarlet, with the idea of the saving of life in general, and more particularly of trying to save the lives of the hunters themselves. The hope prevails that the extreme noticeability of the new shade of jacket and cap will help prevent some of those accidents usually described as cases of "mistaken identity." To be really effective every person going into the woods during the hunting season should be compelled to wear a similar outfit to that which the hunters have. The old woodsman's adage still holds good—that the man who shoots at everything which moves should not be allowed at large with anything more deadly than a Junior hockey stick. Among those who left early this week for the moose haunts are:

Alan Gosnat and "Bob" Meade; this party said to be heading for Bear lake.

Safety of Investment.

The security behind the forthcoming issue of bonds is no reality the integrity of the Canadian people and their undoubted determination to meet all their financial obligations as they mature. Never theless, it is worthwhile briefly to examine some features of the physical security which lies behind every Dominion of Canada bond.

Unfortunately the last figures on national wealth available in the 1928 Canada Year Book—an official government publication—cover the year 1920. Nevertheless, the fact is significant that the tangible wealth of the Dominion at that time, without including undeveloped natural resources, amounted to a figure equal to thirteen times the net public debt, excluding indirect liabilities such as the C.N.R. The $90,000,000 which will be floated Oct. 31 will produce a net increase in the public debt equivalent to about 1-6th of 1 p. c. of the figure at which the net tangible assets of the Dominion were reached 8 years ago.

Despite conditions during the last 2 years, the natural resources of the Dominion were fewer at the end of 1921 than 1 year 11 mo at the end of 1921.

The mineral production in 1921 was almost double the annual charges on the public debt. The value of annual wheat and flour exports, or pulp and paper exports in 1921, are in excess of annual interest requirements. The same can be said of the revenues of Canadian electrical plants (1920).

The foregoing comparisons are not presented to minimize the National debt, but to bring out the relative proportions.

Schuster and Hill versus Litzenberger.

When is a well not a well? This is the weighty problem before the District Court in the above case. A well driller drills 504 feet and the water comes in at 284 ft. how much does the well cost at $1 per foot? is another new point before the Court. An action is commenced before the well is completed, and it is completed during the course of the action, who pays the costs?

These are only a few of the problems confronting His Honor Judge Crawford in this case. The case is as full of tangles as a ball of yarn the act has been playing with.

On Monday morning the Court tried again to unravel the tangle, but the result was another adjournment for further evidence. I B Howat is appearing for the plaintiffs; Geo. J. Bryan for Mr Litzenberger.

Before the P. M.

The case of the Crown against L Heichel Jr. and J J McCalla was completed on Monday, after the Court paid a visit to the scene of the fire. The two defendants had been charged with lighting a fire on the side of the road next to the John Ulmer place. Some fire had undoubtedly burned a part of the Ulmer farm, but the defendants claimed it was not the fire lit by them.

After one of the largest trials that Stony Plain has seen recently, the defence succeeded in convincing the Magistrate that the fire lighted by defendants did not cause the damage. Constable Carr appeared for the Crown; Geo. J. Bryan for both defendants.
